DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 7-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent 6,303,841 to Senetar et al. (hereinafter "Senetar").

Senetar discloses a process for producing olefins from the effluent of an oxygenate conversion process (col. 1, lines 4-8). The process comprises contacting methanol with a molecular sieve catalyst to produce an effluent stream comprising light olefins, oxygenates, and C4+ hydrocarbons (col. 5, lines 15-30 and col. 7, line 44 to col. 8, line 16). The effluent stream is passed to a compression zone to remove water and methanol, the compressed effluent stream is then sent to an oxygenate removal zone (comprising methanol wash followed by water wash) to removes oxygenates, and the oxygenate removal zone effluent is sent to several separation stages including a drying zone (see Figure 2 and accompanying description in col. 13, line 62 to col. 15, line 10).

Senetar fails to disclose the amount of methanol used in the methanol wash.

Senetar discloses that the oxygenate removal zone comprises the use of conventional water washing and methanol washing steps well known to those skilled in the art. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to have determined an effective amount of methanol required for the washing absent any showing of unexpected results.

Senetar, also, fails to disclose the gas superficial velocity as recited in claim 13.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to have determined the optimum gas superficial velocity since it is a result-effective variable. Determination of optimum values of cause effective variables has been held to be within the skill of one practicing in the art. In re Boesch, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

With regard to the methanol conversion rate, since the process of Senetar is similar to the claimed process, the process of Senetar would have resulted in the conversion of methanol in the range as claimed.
